Ariel Martin

Wynter

Ariel Martin voices Wynter, an excitable werewolf and part of Willa's pack, in "ZOMBIES: The Re-Animated Series."

Originally from Pembroke Pines, Florida, Martin, aka Baby Ariel, has already become an accomplished actress, singer, entrepreneur and author at just 18 years old. She first became known as an avid participant on TikTok. Not long after, Martin became the most followed user of the music platform, creating a social following of more than 40 million people. In 2017, she landed a spot on Forbes' list of Top Entertainment Influencers. Currently, Martin serves as executive producer and stars in her own digital YouTube series titled "Baby Doll Records." Her television credits include Disney Channel's "Bizaardvark," "Henry Danger" and "Bixler High Private Eye."

As a pop recording artist on the rise, Martin has released five singles to date. Her music topped nearly 100 million video views and continues to grow.

In 2018, she released her debut book, "Dreaming Out Loud."

Martin has been awarded Choice Muser at the Teen Choice Awards for two consecutive years. She has also garnered an Innovator Honor from the Wall Street Journal.

Martin currently lives with her family and splits her time between Los Angeles, Miami and New York City.
