

ANNA DELVEY

Contestant on ABC's "Dancing with the Stars"

Anna Delvey is an artist, fashion icon and infamous NYC socialite who gained international attention after Netflix purchased the rights to her story and developed it into the 2022 miniseries "Inventing Anna." Delvey's life story has been the subject of several other television shows, interviews, podcasts and theater productions. Some view her as a cunning scam artist, while others see her as a charismatic and ambitious entrepreneur who took advantage of New York City's social elite in an effort to open a prestigious art studio. Her case has also sparked discussions about wealth, privilege and social climbing in modern society. Her story continues to captivate the public's imagination.

Delvey was born in Russia before moving with her family to Germany and becoming active in the fashion industry in Paris. She speaks four languages fluently and currently works as an artist whose sketches and paintings are available for purchase online. Delvey is also a co-founder of a media production company, Outlaw Agency, alongside her business partner, Kelly Cutrone. She will soon be seen in a major feature length documentary revealing the truth behind all the headlines and showcasing her next chapter.
