

Feb. 19, 2025

THURSDAY, FEB. 20

IMPACT x Nightline: “Little Miss Innocent Freed” (319) – Streaming Only on Hulu

Logline: Kaitlyn Conley was previously convicted of poisoning her ex-boyfriend’s mother to death, but in a shocking twist, a New York court overturned her conviction, allowing her to walk free and leaving some to question whether she was wrongfully convicted.

Extended Logline: This week, “IMPACT x Nightline” reports on Kaitlyn Conley. The 31-year-old former receptionist was convicted of manslaughter — but maintained her innocence — in the 2015 killing of Mary Yoder, her former boss and the mother of her ex-boyfriend. Earlier this month, a New York court overturned the conviction, allowing her to walk free. It is currently unknown if she will be retried. “IMPACT x Nightline” breaks down Conley’s case in new interviews and reporting, as well as footage from ABC News Studios’ 2024 docuseries “Little Miss Innocent: Passion. Poison. Prison.”

The Inside Scoop:

- ABC News Studios’ “IMPACT x Nightline: Little Miss Innocent Freed” begins streaming on Thursday, Feb. 20, only on Hulu.
- The episode, led by “Nightline” co-anchor Byron Pitts, features new interviews with Luciann Gould, a former patient and friend of Mary Yoder; Todd Carville, Oneida County district attorney; Sunny Hostin, a former federal prosecutor and co-host of “The View”; and Rocco LaDuca, co-host of Utica, New York, radio show “Talk of The Town.”