

SEAN TEALE

Tristan on ABC's "Doctor Odyssey"

London-born actor Sean Teale first appeared on our screens as Nick Levan in E4's multi-award-winning drama "Skins." The groundbreaking drama famously launched the careers of many British actors including Nicholas Hoult, Dev Patel, Kaya Scodelario, Jack O'Connell and Daniel Kaluuya. Teale has since gone on to star in some of the most-loved TV dramas on both sides of the pond.

Teale is currently filming the brand-new Ryan Murphy ABC series, "Doctor Odyssey," starring alongside Joshua Jackson, Phillipa Soo and Don Johnson, set for a fall premiere in 2024.

Teale's additional screen credits include "Mother of the Bride" (Netflix); Dario in "Rosaline" (Hulu/Disney+), opposite Kaitlyn Dever; "Who Is Erin Carter?" (Left Bank Pictures for Netflix), which was one of Netflix's highest-rated limited drama series in 2023; "Little Voice" (Apple TV), produced by J.J. Abrams and Sara Bareilles; Fox and Marvel's "The Gifted" as Marcos Diaz AKA Eclipse; CBS/SyFy's dystopian thriller "Incorporated," playing the lead Ben Larson, produced by Ben Affleck and Matt Damon; Prince Louis Conde in "Reign" (CBS); Franco in the ratings-winning ITV period drama "Mr. Selfridge" with Jeremy Piven; and Joe Ahearne's award-winning independent thriller "B&B," alongside Tom Bateman and Paul McGann.

PERSONAL INFORMATION

HOMETOWN: London, England

BIRTHDATE: June 18